CIA 'Clip Service' Plies War Critics

By George C. Wilson Washington Post Staff Writer

Lawmakers speaking out nents of heavier bombing of against the Administration's North Vietnam as Sens, Stuart 'Vietnam policies these days often get back more press often get back more press clippings than they bargained doves, Sen. John Sherman for, thanks to the Central Intelligence Agency.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R. N.J.), for example, shortly after criticizing the Johnson Administration's conduct of the "war, received a batch of tele-"type copy from the CIA showing how much hay the Communist press made out of his remarks.

The CIA runs what a spokes-man there called a "courtesy clipping service, not a lobby-ing operation", to keep law-makers posted on what the Communist press says about them.

The teletype transcripts are accompanied by covering notes saying the CIA believed the translation "might be of interest."

'A CIA spokesman said there are no specific rules for this Intelligence Agency, a British 'service of several years standing, adding that some lawmakers request it while in other cases the agency's legislative liaison officers decide on their own who should get it.

A member of Case's staff, when queried, could not recall requesting the transiations or receiving them before the Senator made his recent series of speeches challenging
